What is SIFE?

Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) is an international non-profit organization that partners with leaders in business and academics to mobilize students to make a difference in their communities. SIFE members utilize their knowledge of business concepts to develop outreach programs aimed to help aspiring entrepreneurs achieve success, equip individuals with skills to find productive employment and teach individuals how to achieve financial security; therefore SIFE Saskatchewan is promoting economic development. We strongly believe that SIFE's community involvement is educating, enabling and empowering the people of our province.

What is Different about SIFE from other student programs?

The reason why SIFE is different from other student organizations is that you ACTUALLY apply the knowledge you learn in the classroom to real life situations through our programs. We develop plans and put them into action. We operate through the entire academic year and have the opportunity to travel across the country for regional's and nationals, competing with other SIFE groups based on the programs we run.

Benefits of Becoming Involved in SIFE Saskatchewan

SIFE is a great way to get involved early in your university career, meet new people, and apply what you learn in school to outside of the classroom. Involvement in SIFE allows students to gain or enhance skills that will differentiate them as job candidates including: public speaking, organization skills, group work, time management skills, leadership skills, etc. SIFE is recognized worldwide as a leader in student engagement organizations and potential employers will recognize your involvement in the program.
